Localities Might Decide.

Nevertheless, if the proposition should take the form of local option, it might have a good chance of enactment into law. As is the case with compulsory education, each school district, or each county and city, might he given the right to vote on the question of furnishing free school books to its own children, paying for them out of local funds. Such a proposition might conceivably meet with public favor.

of local funds. Such a proposition might conceivably meet with public favor.

The entire tendency of administration in school affairs, it is pointed out, is toward the purchase of supplies for schools from local treasuries, letting the State or general fund go toward the employment of teachers. Further, it is said that Maryland is the only State in the Union where hooks are purchased free for the school children from the public treasury, and there, it is understood, the prices are much higher than they are in Virginia—all of which, in the long run, the people pay. Opportunity is given, it is argued, in such an event, for combines and agreements and jobbery.

However, other States have the local option plan, some with satisfactory results.

Calendars Fail to Agree This Year

Give Different Dates for Thanks-1 find out," he was told, but that handgiving Day and Puzzle Many Wise Men.

Wise Men.

Calendars—which are sometimes given away by enterprising firms for advertising purposes—fail to agree this year on the date which President Taft will proclaim as the national Thanksgiving Day. The question was flung upon the air yesterday by the manager of the Richmond College football team, who wanted to know exactly when the University of North Carolina and the University of North Carolina would meet at Broad Street Park. He was referred to W. B. Bradley, who sometimes rents the grounds, and Mr. Bradley had to admit that he hadn't given the matter a thought, which meant that he didn't know. The manager asked some of the cellege professors, who sharply referred him to the calendar. "But," said the manager, "the calendars do not agree. Some of them carry the red mark around November 23 and others picture November 36. Which is right?"

"Look in the World's Almanac and book of reliable information gave him to understand that Thanksgiving Day to understand that Thanksgiving Day usually fell on the fourth Thursday in November. But even that was not specific, nor was it correct.

Then the manager found a reporter, and the reporter dug into records, which were authentic. These showed that since 1884 the last Thursday in November had always been celebrated by football players and turkey enters, and that's the right dope. It happens that there are five Thursdays in the month this year; there will be five next year, a fact which calendar makers should keep in mind.

The big day, therefore, is November 30.
